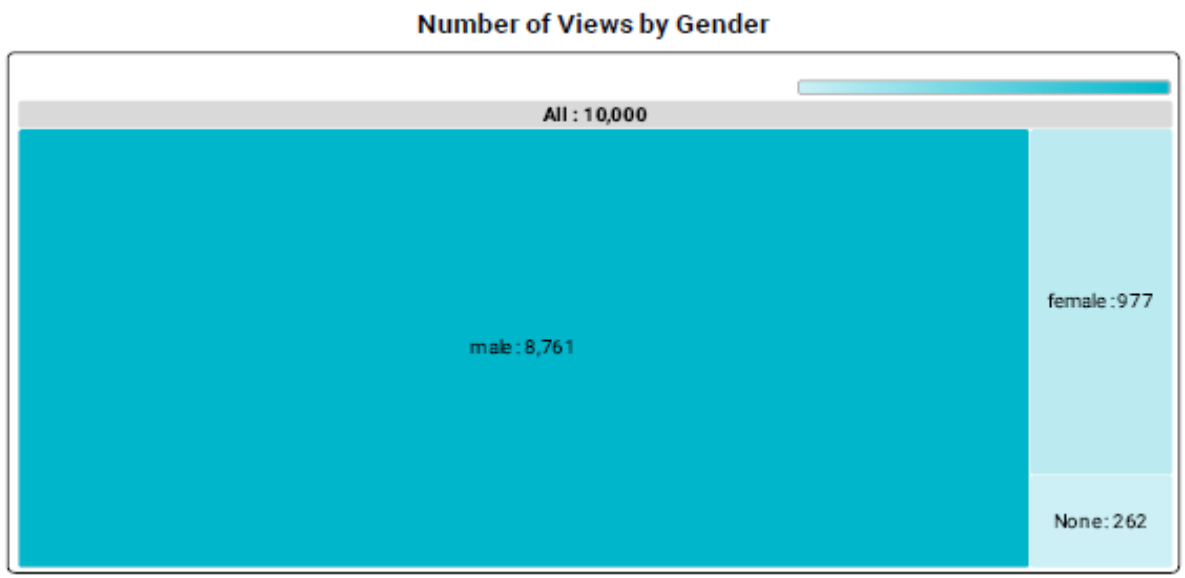
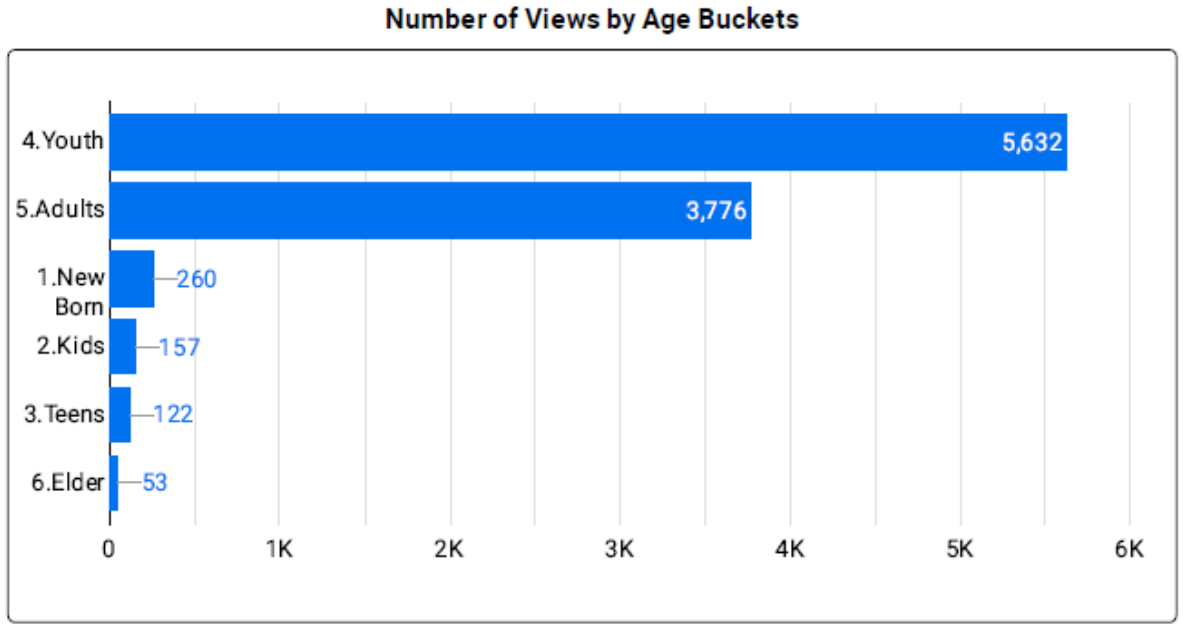
- Monday (957) is the lowest consumption day of the week.
- Afternoon (3734) is the most popular time to view TV , followed by the evening (2482), while night (1329) is the least popular time to view TV.

Analysis

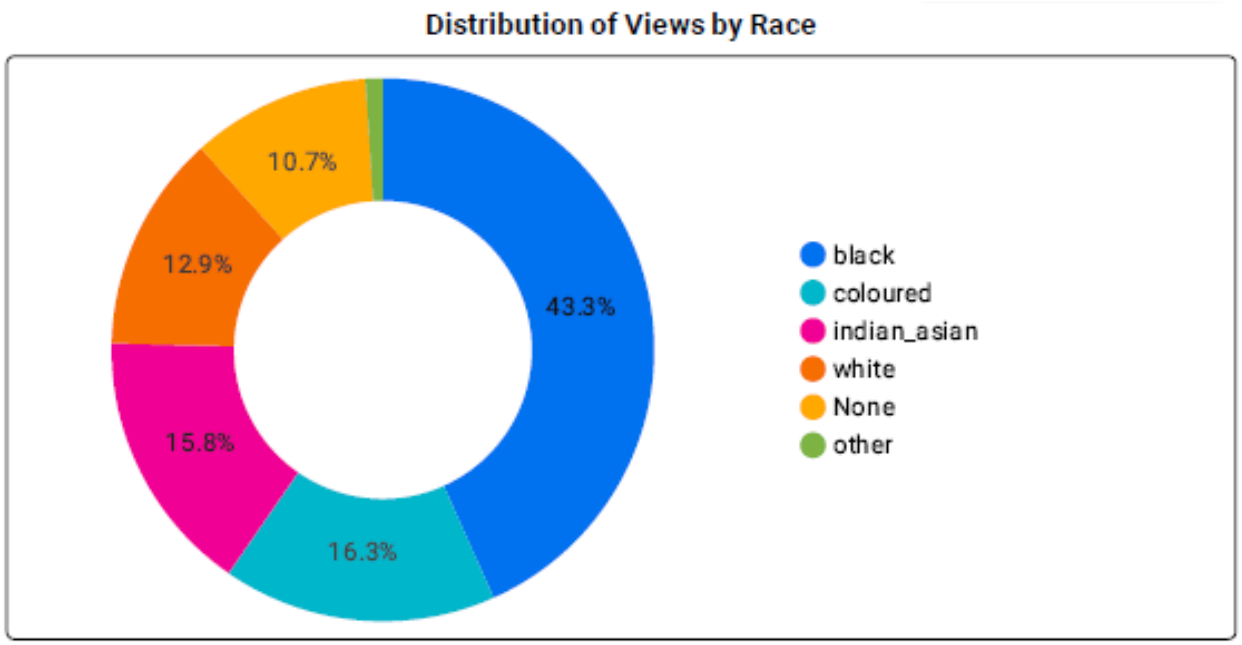




Insights

- The male gender has the highest views (8755), while female have low views (977).
- It is hard to classify the None gender category because they did not provide enough information.
- The Youth (5632) have the largest number of TV views, followed by adults (3776), while elders (53) are the lowest number of TV viewers.

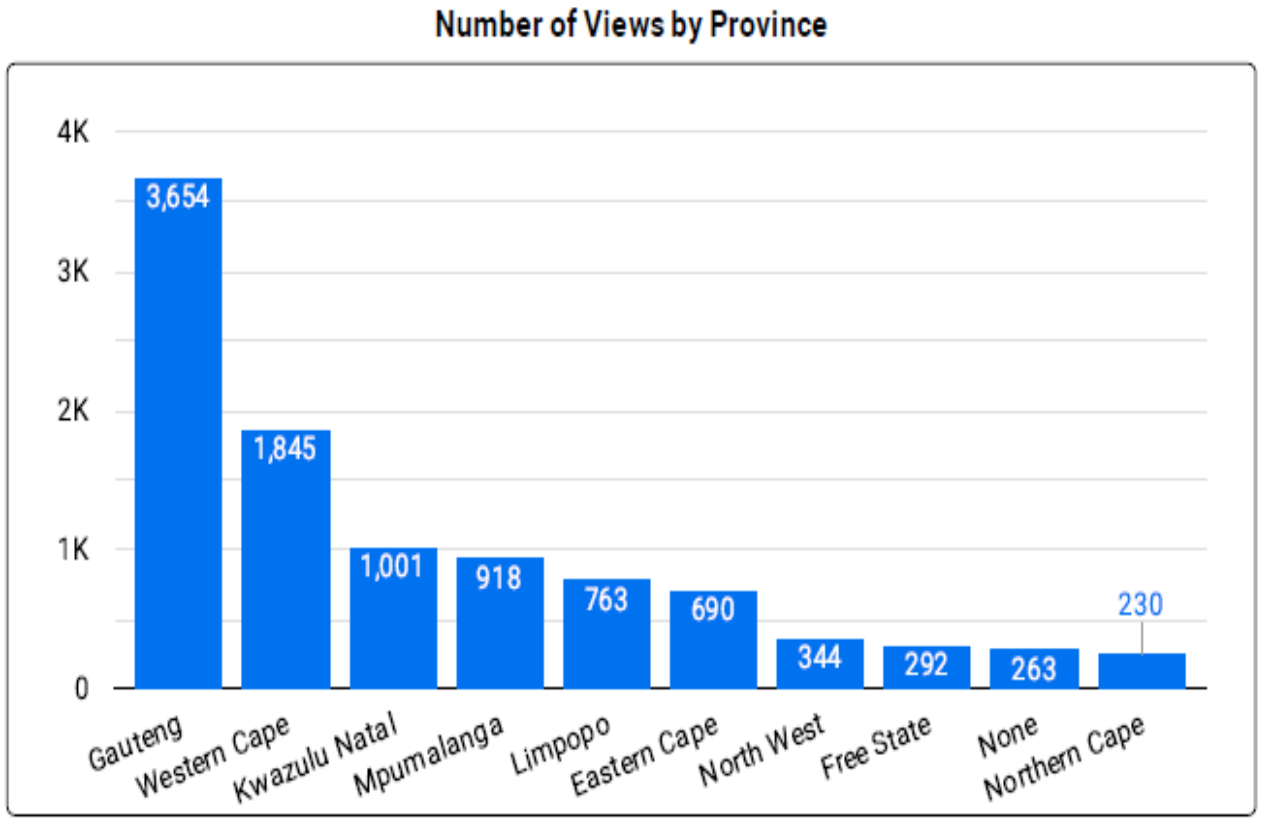
Analysis



Insights

- The Black Race (43.3%) is the majority TV viewer, followed by Coloured (16.3%) and Indian_Asian (15.8%), while the White Race has a low (12.9%) viewership
- The None category did not provide information about their Race, so it is not possible to classify them
- While the Other Race category maybe they do not fall within the specified categories

Analysis



Insights

- Gauteng has the largest number of TV views (3654), followed by Western Cape (1845), and KwaZulu Natal (1001).
- Free State (292) and Northern Cape (230) have lower number of views.
- The None category did not specify their exact province location

Recommendations

- Show content with high number of viewers such as: Supersport Live Events, ICC Cricket World Cup 2011, Channel 0 and Trace TV, to attract more youth and teen viewers on days with low TV consumption (e.g. Monday), to increase viewership.
- Grow the number of female viewers by showing content that appeals to females e.g. E!Entertainment and African Magic.
- Focus on growing viewership in provinces like the Northern Cape and Free State through location specific promotions.
- Show more shows that can attract white viewers, maybe Afrikaans language content.
- In the afternoon focus on kids friendly content such as Cartoon Network and Boomerang, to increase the number of kids viewers.
- Do not neglect your most loyal viewers including provinces with high views, the youth and adults, the black race and Friday- the highest TV consumption day.
